A Simple Way to Review How Well Your Blog Is Working

Use this scorecard to review one blog post, page, or key section of your blog.

This is not a test or a harsh grade.

The purpose is to spot where the page feels strong, where it feels weak, and what improvement should happen first.

Review one page at a time.

Do not try to score your whole blog in one sitting.

Page or Post Being Reviewed

Page or Post Title:

URL:

Date Reviewed:

Main Purpose of This Page:

What should this page help the reader do?

How to Score Each Area

Use a simple 1 to 3 score.

1 = Needs Attention

This area may confuse readers, slow them down, or make the page harder to use.

2 = Mostly Okay

This area is working, but it could be clearer or stronger.

3 = Working Well

This area feels clear, useful, and easy for the reader to follow.

Do not spend too long deciding between scores.

The number is only there to help you see where to focus next.

1. Content Clarity

Does the page clearly explain what it is about?

Check:

- The title matches the content
- The opening gets to the point quickly
- The page has one main purpose
- The headings are easy to scan
- The sections stay focused
- The ending gives a useful next step

Score: 1 / 2 / 3

Notes:

2. Reader Flow

Does the page help the reader know where to go next?

Check:

- The page does not end suddenly
- Related links are useful and relevant
- The next step matches the topic

- The reader can see what to do next
- The reader is not given too many choices
- Important links are easy to find

Score: 1 / 2 / 3

Notes:

3. Trust Signals

Does the page feel current, credible, and cared for?

Check:

- The content feels up to date
- Links still work
- Examples still make sense
- Author or brand identity is clear
- Recommendations are explained
- Contact, support, or disclosure details are clear where needed

Score: 1 / 2 / 3

Notes:

4. Email Connection

Does the page give interested readers a clear way to stay connected?

Check:

- Signup forms are easy to find
- The signup offer matches the page topic
- The benefit is specific
- Button text is clear
- The signup area feels trustworthy

- The form works well on mobile

Score: 1 / 2 / 3

Notes:

5. Monetization Fit

Do offers, affiliate links, or product recommendations feel useful and natural?

Check:

- The offer matches the page topic
- The reader understands why it is mentioned
- The link appears at a natural point
- There are not too many competing offers
- The tone feels helpful, not pushy
- Any required disclosure is clear

Score: 1 / 2 / 3

Notes:

6. Priority

Is this page worth improving soon?

This score is not about how good the page is. It is about how soon the page deserves attention.

Check:

- The page already gets attention
- The page supports email signup
- The page supports a product, offer, or affiliate link

- The issue affects reader understanding
- The issue affects trust or next steps
- One clear fix could make the page more useful

Score: 1 / 2 / 3

Notes:

Score Summary

Add your scores below.

Review Area	Score
Content Clarity
Reader Flow
Trust Signals
Email Connection
Monetization Fit
Priority

Total Score: ____ / 18

What the Score Means

15–18: Working Well

The page is mostly strong. Look for one small improvement that could make it even easier to use.

10–14: Needs Light Improvement

The page has useful content, but one or two areas may need attention. Start with the lowest score.

6–9: Needs Focused Review

The page may need a closer review before it can guide readers smoothly. Choose one important fix before moving to another page.

Do not use the score as a final judgment.

Use it as a starting point.

Main Issue to Fix First

Look at your lowest score.

Then write down the main issue.

The main issue is:

Why This Matters

How does this issue affect the reader?

- Makes the page harder to understand
- Gives the reader no clear next step
- Weakens trust
- Makes the signup offer less relevant
- Makes the recommendation feel disconnected
- Creates too many choices
- Other: _____

Notes:

First Improvement to Make

Choose one improvement.

Keep it small and clear.

First improvement:

Fix Type

Choose one:

- Quick Win
- Deep Fix
- Leave for Later

Fix Type:

Follow-Up Needed

After making the improvement, what should you check later?

Follow-up note:

Use this scorecard again during your next monthly blog optimization routine.

You do not need a perfect score.

You only need a clearer view of what to improve next.
